Independence Day.

Jai Hind! Students of DPSV started their day with an invigorating series of events performed by their fellow classmates ranging from patriotic songs to exuberant dances to commemorate the nation's 76th Independence Day.

Paratha Day!

Show and Tell

We humans are social beings; which makes show and tell a golden opportunity for getting children to express their interests and socialize with their friends!

Rakshabandhan

The bond between a brother and a sister is a sacred connection of trust, love and respect. Our pre-primary students were given the fun-filled opportunity to take part in activities celebrating the symbolism and the encompassing affection of tying the rakhi as a mark of trust between siblings.

National Sports Day!

Major Dhyan Chand's spirit and valour continues to thrive in our little athletes of today! We at DPSV took this occasion as an opportunity to foster the values of sportsmanship, athleticness and forthrightness in our pre-primary students, thereby ingraining the morals that Dhyan Chand tirelessly strove for throughout his life.

Plant Nursery!

Our pre-primary students were endowed with an insightful and eye-opening experience into the world of flora on a field trip to the plant nursery. It is of great importance to encourage and bring up awareness about the essential role these precious givers of life to the planet play in the minds of young children.

Puppet Theatre!

There is no better way to introduce children to the world of drama and theatre than by filling them with joy and adoration using puppets! We watched as our little ones unleashed their creativity and drama chops using puppets with infectious enthusiasm!

Visit To the Post Office!

Educating our children about the lifelines of our country through excursions is crucial, which is why our students were taken to the local post office and given an enlightening insight into the cogs of our postal service system that ensure the safe and efficient transport of our mail from point A to point B.

Ganesh Chaturthi!

Ganesh Chaturthi, the festival worshipping Lord Ganesh which kicks off the festive season with a blast. Our kids reunited with their dearest Ganapati ji and celebrated this joyous occasion.

Green Vegetable and Puri Day!

Being a staple meal of many Indians, yet still timelessly enjoyed and in which is found a common love for nutritional sabzis and puris, green vegetables and puris deserve a day of their own where the importance of healthy, enjoyable meals is emphasized to our children from a young age.

Janmashtami!

Janmashtami - the most auspicious festival commemorating the birth of the immensely revered Hindu deity Shri Krishna – was passionately celebrated by our little pre-primary stars by dressing up in traditional attire as Kanha himself!

Involving our students in the commemoration and celebration of our nation's linguistic diversity is essential and a great opportunity to foster unity in diversity!

School Tour!

A trip endlessly filled with memorable times and thrilling adventures, our excursion to Rajasthan was an unforgettable experience for our students!

Grandparents Day!

The bond of love between a child and their grandparents far exceeds the value of even the most precious jewels on Earth. To celebrate the sacred and pure nature of this bond, our primary students performed a fantastic show for their grandparents, spectacularly displaying their immense gratitude and love for their elderly loved ones.

Secondary Events!

Know your teacher! Mr. Sanjay Sharma

Get to know more!

Q. What values do you wish to exemplify and propagate to your students through teaching?

A. I would like to emphasize to all the importance of being fluent in your mother tongue. To learn, communicate, and practise your language in all facets of life is essential. Be open to other languages as well. People like P.V. Narsimha Rao were loved among the masses because of their seamless ability to communicate with people from all linguistic backgrounds. It always makes me proud to see students who are conversant in multiple Indian languages. That multilingual knack for languages needs to be promoted among our youth more. It puts our cultural diversity so much more into perspective.

Q. Of all subjects to teach, how did you find your passion for teaching Hindi?

A. One of my parents taught Sanskrit in school. I accumulated a couple of degrees myself - graduated with Economics, did an MA in history - but I always had an unflinchingly strong connection to language. The free reign over creativity that one has with language was what pulled me in.

Q. What is your approach towards uplifting those students struggling with the subject?

A. I believe that practical methods are the most effective for dispelling the problems a student faces in a linguistic subject. I provide them with fun activities that make the process of overcoming doubts enjoyable, and I always give as many examples as possible to help them gain clarity of their weak areas. The advent of computers has also been of great help, as using presentations, audiobooks and videos have tremendously helped in gauging the interest of my students.
